THE TRIALS OF J.C. HIGH

Jackson Center High School

Jackson Center, Ohio

1977

Come . . . Walk with us!

The Path of time has been stilled, Hushed . . .

You need only to glance backwards . . .

Hurry! The whispers begin!

Watch . . .

Listen . . .

You alone shall know the words!

Mad chemist at work! . . .
Brenda Schilling

Studying? In study hall?

Welcome to the trials of Jackson Center High School. On this and the ensuing pages, our staff has compiled a list of the memorable "crimes" committed during the '76-77' school year. We have provided you with the names of the suspects, incriminating evidence, and - but first things first. Every act must have a place of occurrence and our first priority is, of course, to establish the "scene of the crime."

SCENE OF THE CRIME

"You deserve a break today" . . . elementary teachers at lunch.

"Mr. Bumble"

"I just can't believe it" . . . Bonnie Coleman.

Coming, coming, came . . . going, going gone.

Study halls, cafeterias, playgrounds - the "crimes" occurring in these places of frequent visitation are the time-honored ones of generations: thousands of spoons have lifted Tuesday's chili to thousands of mouths in the past, and seemingly were always to do so; millions of paper airplanes are perpetually flown through the "still, peaceful" atmosphere of study halls. The acts of transgression seldom change. Only the names and faces of the transgressors alter with the accumulation of years.

Time - years, months, days, hours flowing unhurriedly together causing accustomed actions and familiar places to blur together and become ordinary, even boring. Still, contemplation of time with the advantage of maturity will reveal memories and impressions of actions so individual and unique that we will be amazed we could ever have thought them mundane.

SCENE OF THE CRIME

"It's finger-lickin' good!" . . . Ken Spencer.

A glimpse into the future . . . Marilyn Heintz and Friend.

We gotcha! . . . Kevin Allison, Scott Calim.

School - branches to a better life.

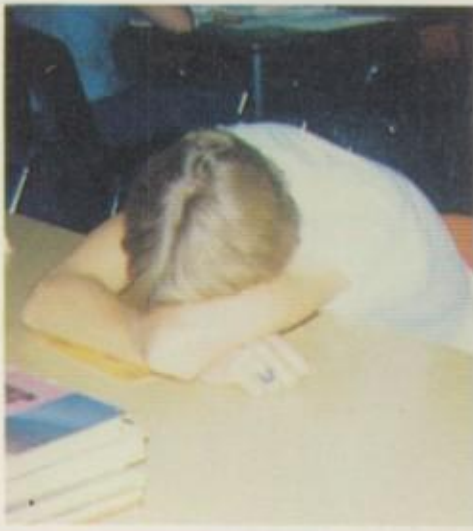

Merle! It's only a joke!

School. A single symbolic word denoting many different things to many different people. Although many students thoroughly enjoy school while others do not, most would agree that school is a more than perfect setting for the "Scene of the Crime."

The guys have competition! . . . Tammy Maxwell, Dean Wright.

"My Excuse? I'm camera shy!"

What have you been up to? . . . Lori Ware.

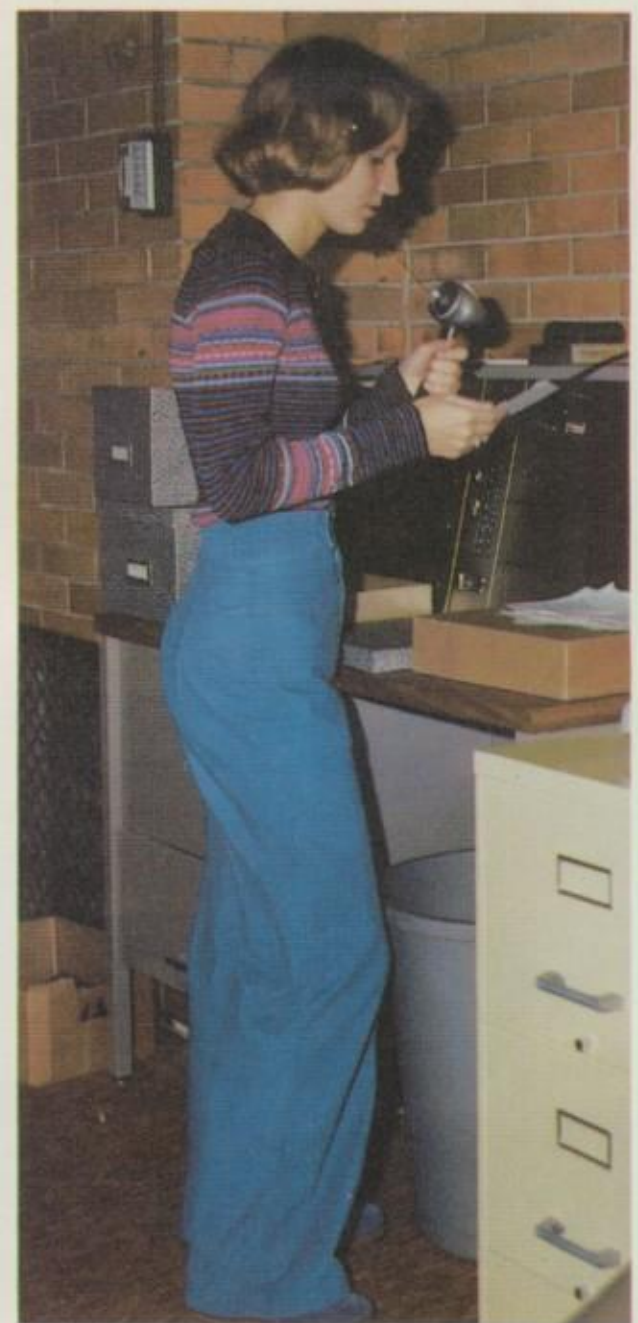

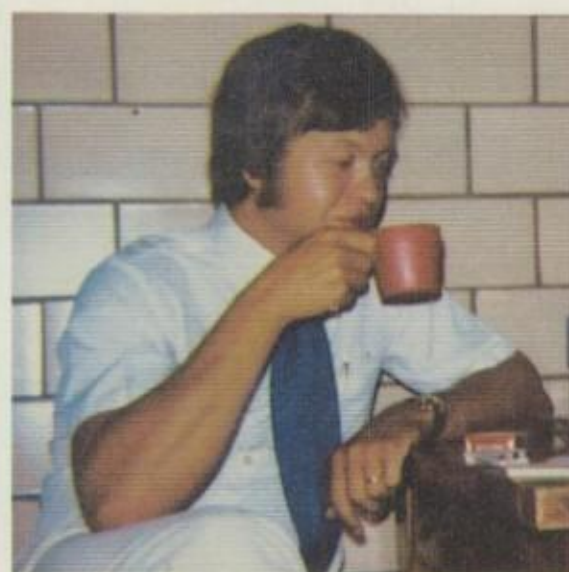

A watched pot never boils . . . Rosemary Christler.

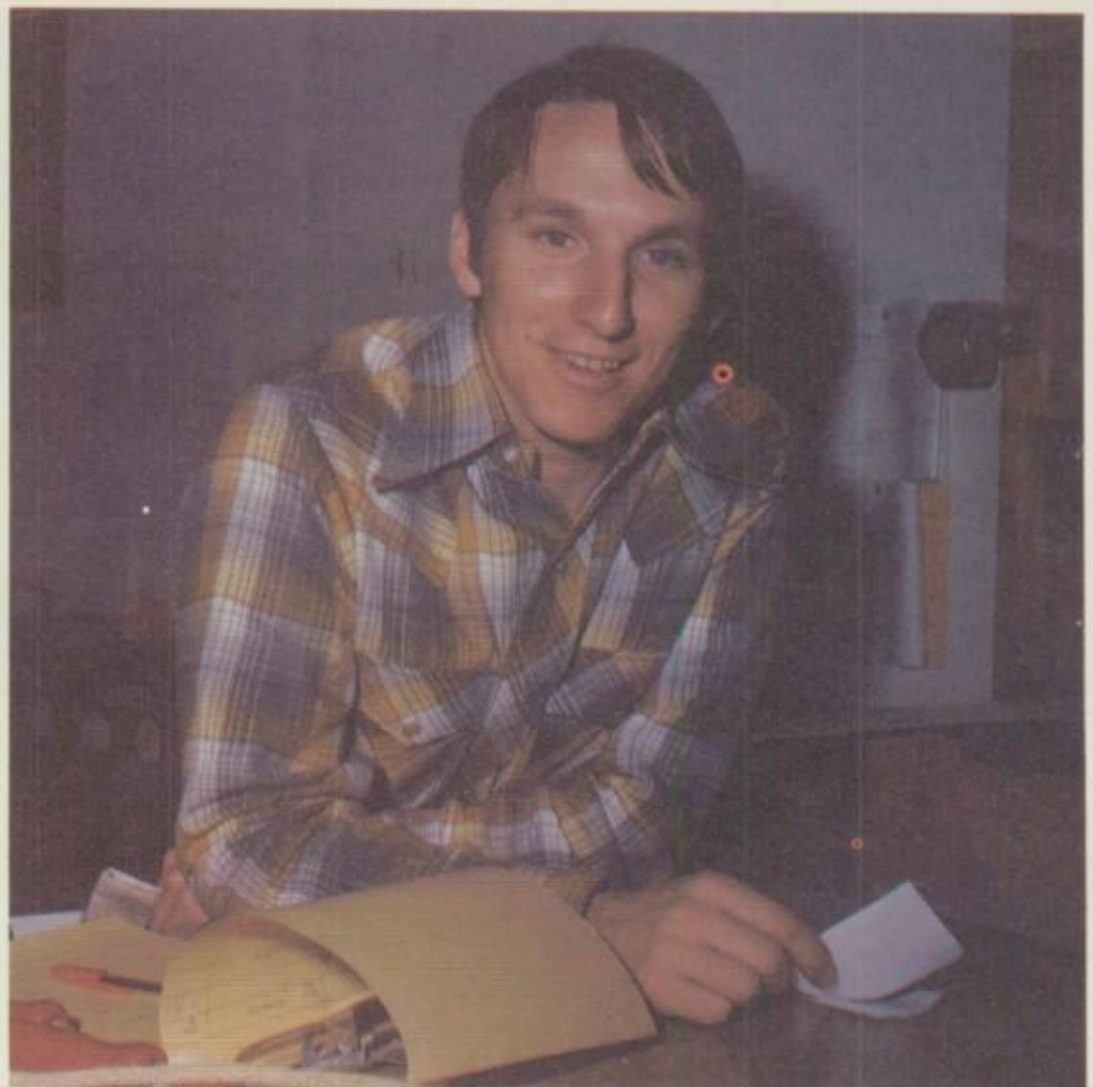

"We're all in our places with bright shiny faces!?"

Many things typify mornings at Ja-Ce-Hi: Announcements by nervous members of speech class; A bracing cup of coffee in the teacher's lounge; Preparations for the day's lunch; First period art class; Waiting patiently (?) for the 8:00 bell to ring; and for those who find it hard to wake up, sleeping in first period study hall.

"Good morning. The juniors - What? Turn it on?" . . . Kay Klopfenstein.

MORNING OF THE CRIME

It's amazing how cheerful and awake some people can look in the morning. Coach Harmon appears to be actually enjoying his visit to the office. Our faithful cooks look ready and very eager to begin fixing lunch for several hundred people. Even such chores as studying and peering into crowded lockers come easily in the morning.

"I told you it would burn!" . . . Steve Boyer, Fred Bodenmiller.

"You think that's funny?" . . . Junior Markey.

"Hey Mom! School is fun!" . . . Cindy Gilfillan and friends.

Some mornings seem to find people in strange places: boys baking cookies in Home Ec., and two young "natives" in Child Development. Then we have those not in strange places - just doing strange things. A girl sitting down to play volleyball? A human prop for the study hall bench? And finally we have one in a strange mood. Who knows what is going on behind that bored look?

Somebody has to hold the desk up! . . . Joe Smith.

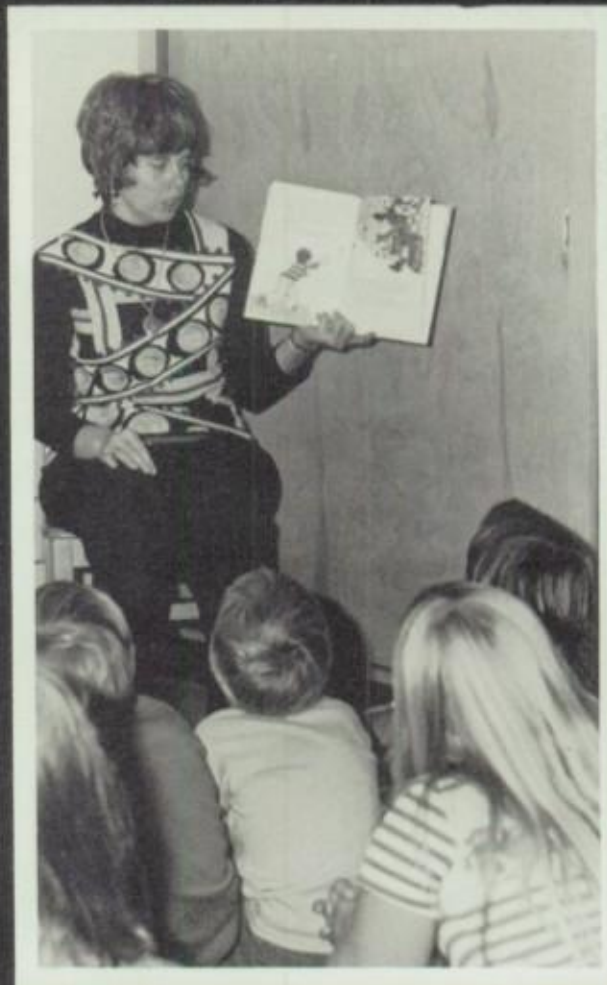

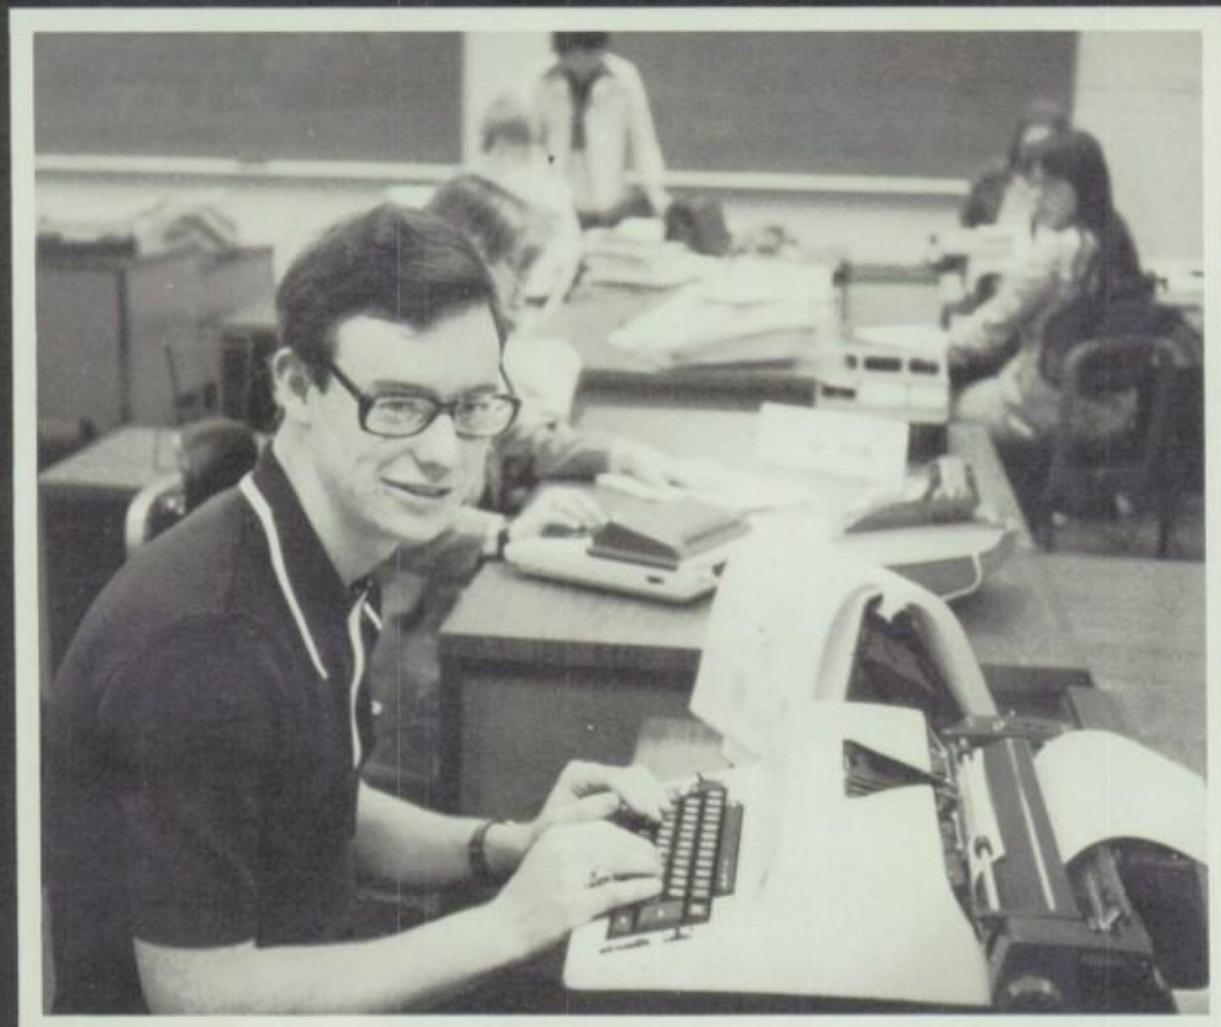

"Aw Shucks" . . . Lee Parker.

Some people are quite bashful in the morning. Others appear to be taking it easy. And we can't forget our industrious students at the J.V.S., or our future high school students, now beginning their long journey on the road of education. All these things and many more are examples of morning happenings here at Ja-Ce-Hi!

MORNING OF THE CRIME

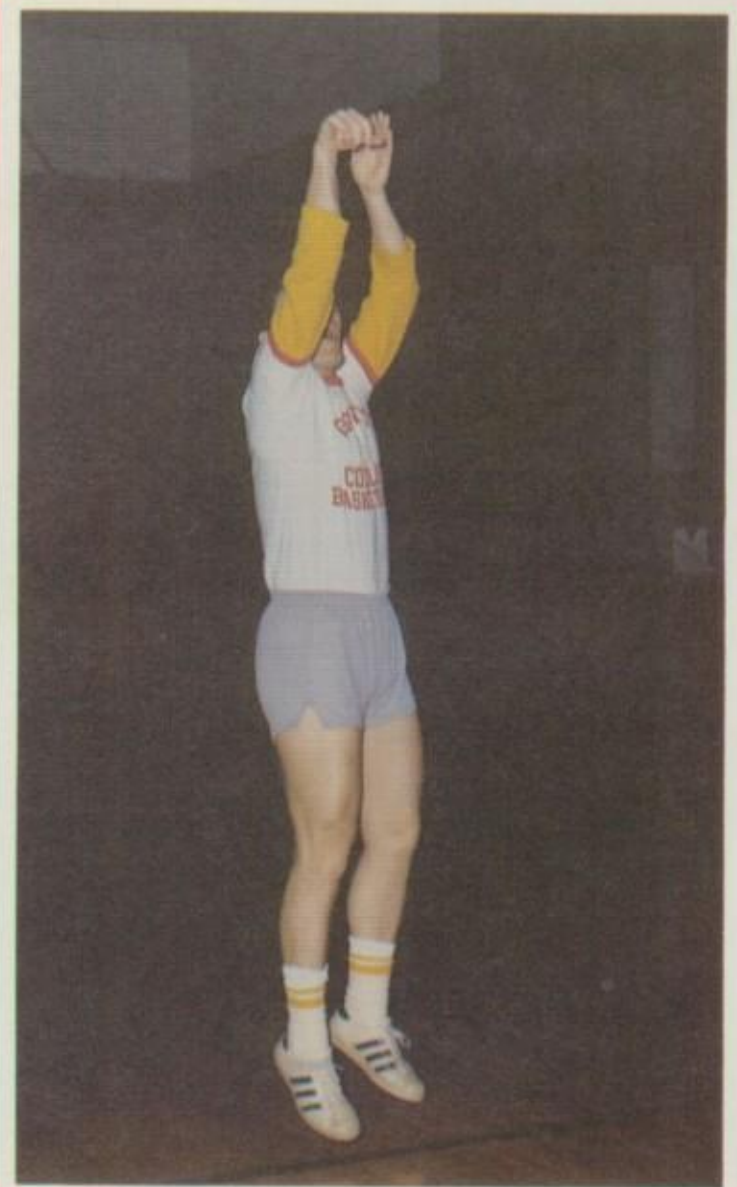

"Tell me a story . . ."

AFTERNOON OF THE CRIME

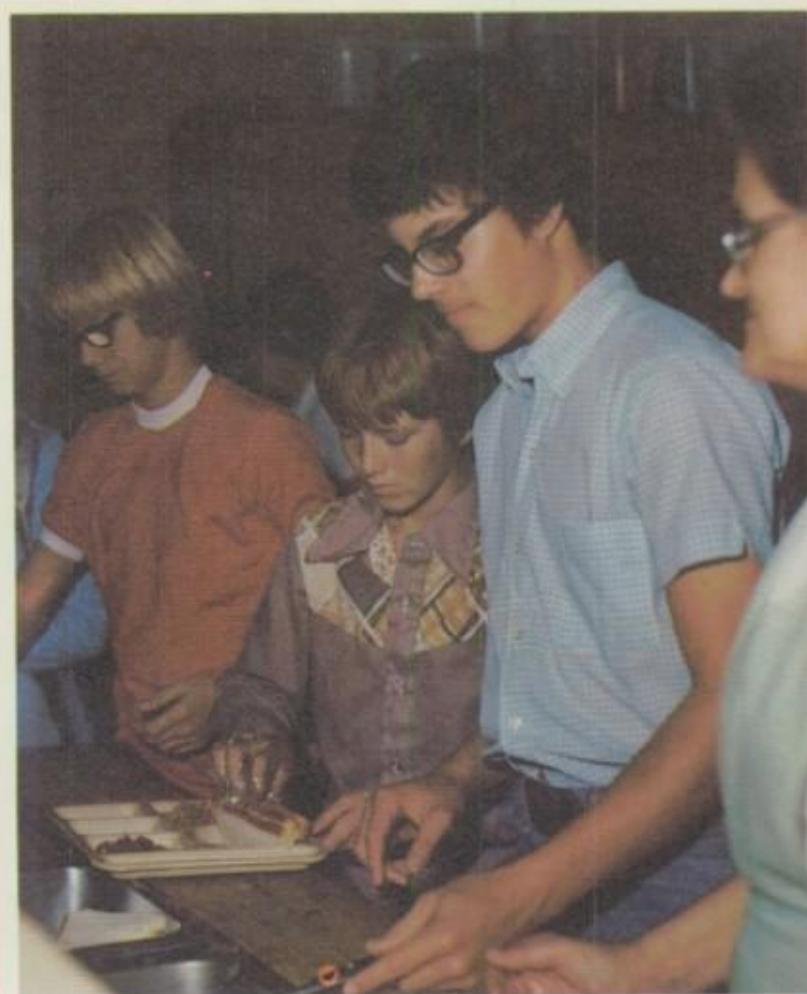

Following the morning doldrums, afternoons are full of activity; Physical Education for junior high, lunch for the little ones, and a chance for Coach to get in a few practice shots.

"He must've made it! . . . Coach Harmon."

Activities are many and varied. Such things as wandering the halls, eating lunch, relieving boredom, and just (literally) standing around occur.

"All we get are complaints!"

"Hi!" . . . Diane Allenbaugh, Bob Zorn.

Cool? Seniors got it!

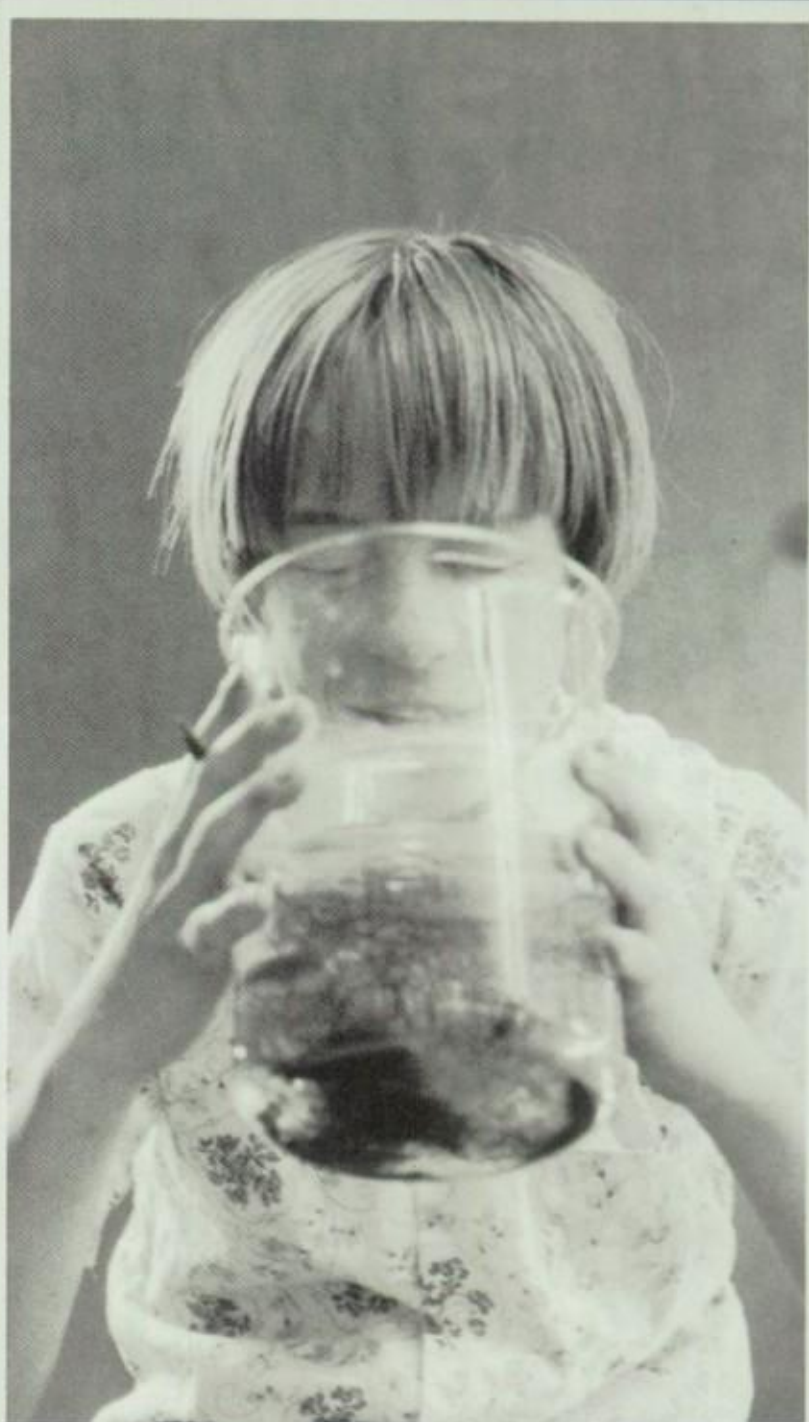

Good times and laughter also typify the afternoons; junior high art classes, drinking (?), strange creatures in science, studying, messing around, and just laughing for the fun of it!

"We wouldn't do that!" . . . John Homan, Mark Knief, Melody Brenner.

"Kent? Shaving?!"

"Lunch!" . . . Joey Withrow.

"You don't drink ketchup, Dummy!"

Afternoons also mean the ending of the school day. Everyone just "hates" to get lunch over with, and none of the Seniors like to leave Government class. All of the kids enjoy staying in school so much, they don't like to leave, as you can see by their expressions.

"Say it, don't spray it! . . . Roger Tangeman.

AFTERNOON OF THE CRIME

It's been a long day . . . Jim Maxwell.

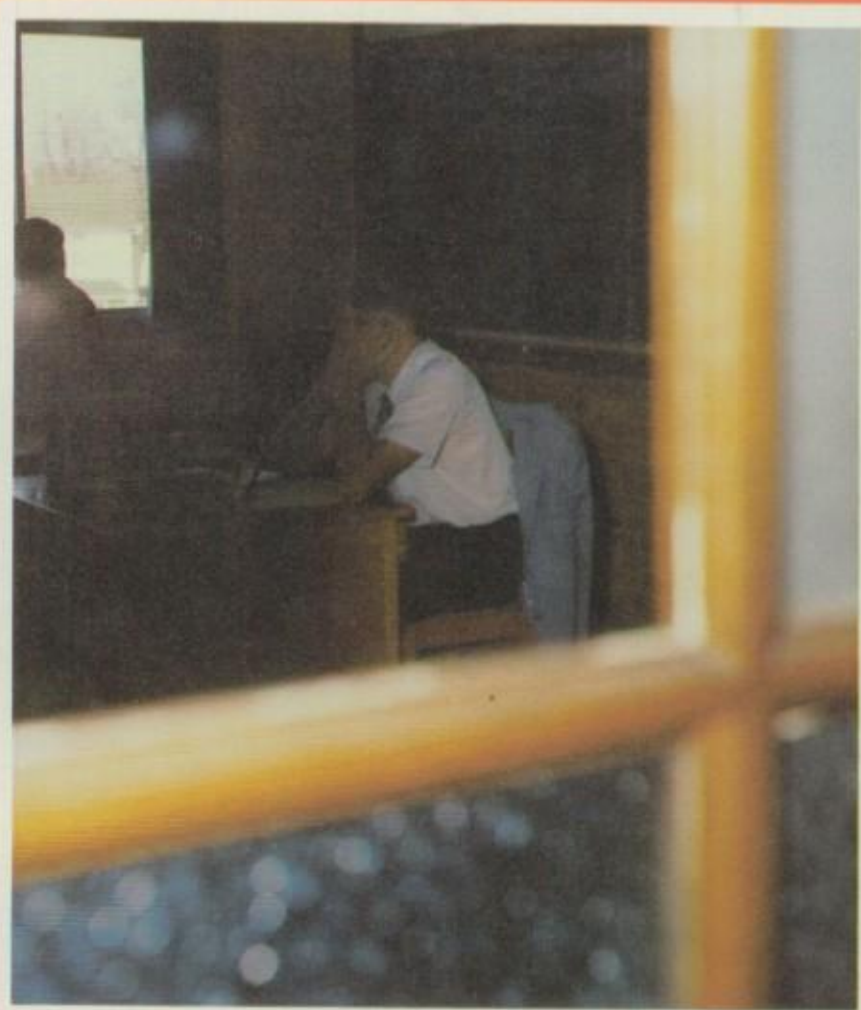

Every crime must have a victim. The degree of victimization is contingent upon an individual's seniority - student, teacher, administrator, etc. - and his interpretation of persecution. Certainly everyone, from the most perplexed teacher to the most confused 7th grader, feels himself harassed at one time or another.

"How does this sound?" . . . Kay Gerber, Amy Spencer, Jean Zwiebel.

"No Peeking!" . . . Deb Tidd.

VICTIMS OF THE CRIME

"Do you mind?" . . . Rhonda Ambos.

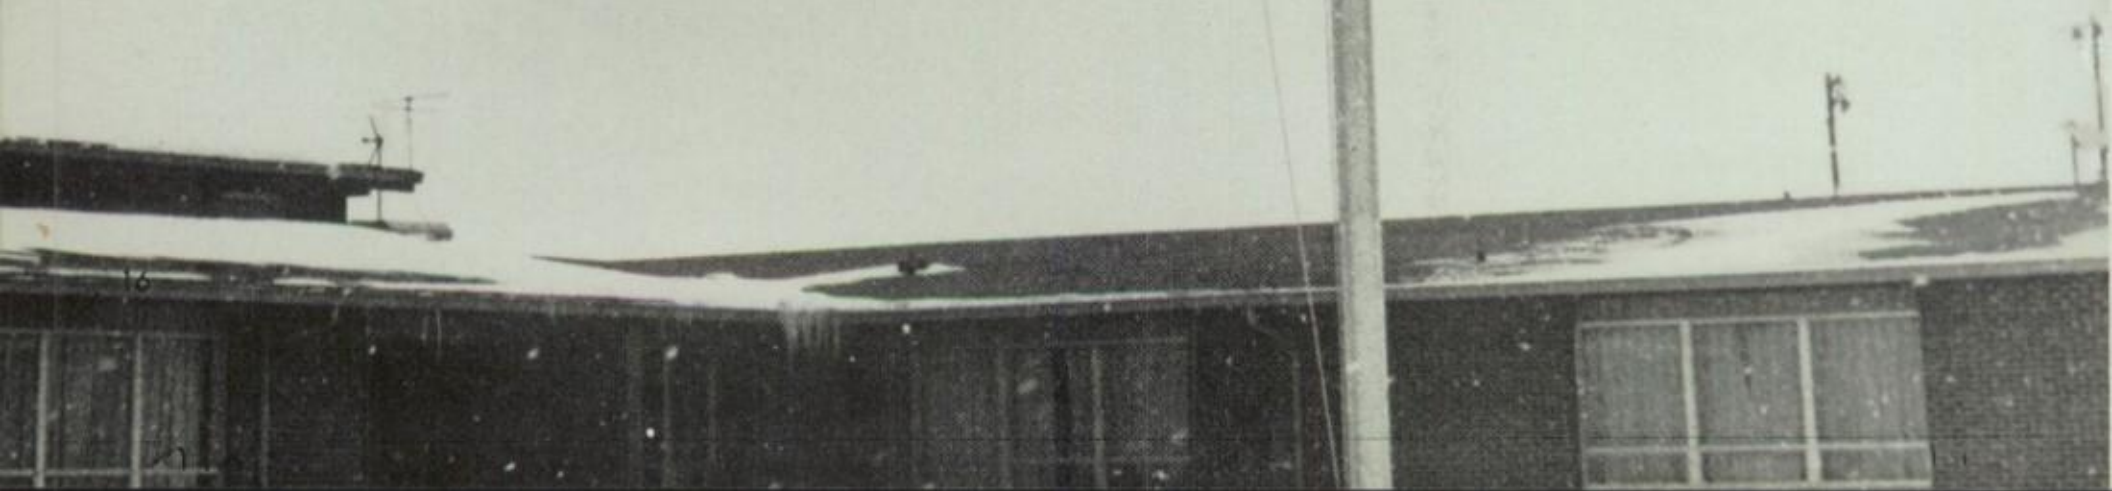

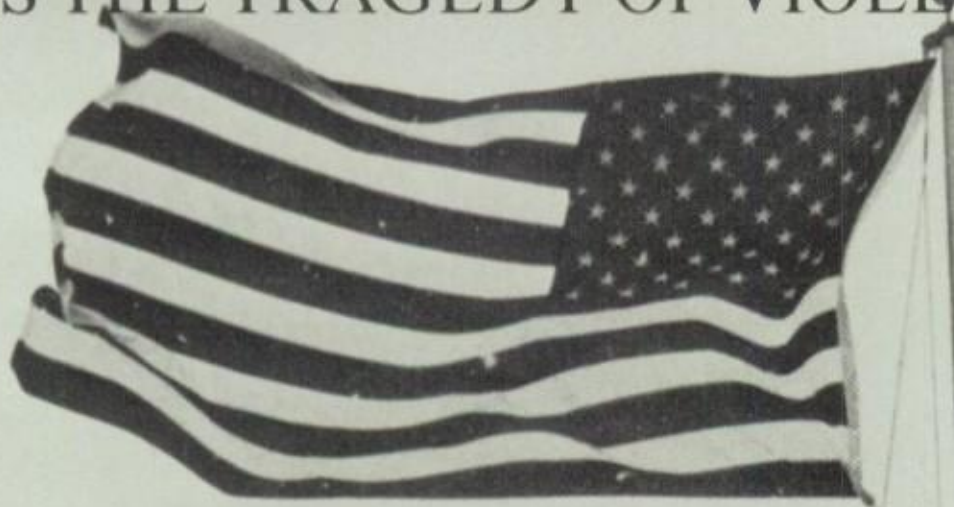

"I like dreaming" . . . Mr. Pirman.

Victims! Victims! Everywhere you look you find a victim. It would seem that no one, not the President of the U.S. or the criminals themselves, is ever free from the side effects of other's actions. All of us would like to believe that the beneficial effects vastly outweigh those that are detrimental.

GREATER THAN WORDS . . .
IS THE TRAGEDY OF VIOLENT DEATH.

January 9, 1977. Raging fire extinguishes the lives of five Jackson Center residents, forcing us all to acknowledge the vulnerability of life. Perished are Betty, Brenda, and Julie Smith; David and Carrie Cowart.

"Winterizing Sis hain't the easiest thing in the hills."

October 22, 1976, 8:00 sharp. The curtain rises and fifteen performers begin to portray the native characters they had become in just four short weeks. Hearts thumping in nervous anticipation they gave a "humdinger" performance.

Those four weeks were filled with hours of exhausting practices, minutes of uneasy sleep, and years of fond memories. All the participants learned to appreciate the efforts of others and to value co-operation. Such a combination of easygoing compatibility produced spontaneous moments which helped to relieve tension. For their part, Ralph and the Ralphettes produced a spirited 50's number which left the cast in stitches. Gloria the "skunk," her "disappearing" acts and her "relieving" acts also added charm to the production.

"HEADIN' FOR A WEDDIN' "

"Rockin' round the clock."

Sports before math? Naturally! . . . Ralph Wise.

Well, Records are . . . um . . . educational too . . . Connie Poppe.

On the cultural exchange Jackson Center has been fortunate.

Some of us worked - Occasionally. . . . Shari Stevens.

A time to work - or a time to play? . . . Ken Ruark.

As seniors, each one of us looks primarily into the future. But when looking into the future, one has to look to the past too. The road I've traveled has been winding, with many ups and downs along the way. Each new experience in elementary, junior high, and in high school helped to make me the person that I am today. I realize that this will be true for the future too, but I'm not sure if I can sacrifice what I am now for what I can become - as our motto states. Somehow though, I know in my heart that I will accept the challenge of the unknown path lying before me, and I will find the courage to become a better person. . . . Jean Zwiebel.

The three Mousketeers - Brenda Schilling, Kay Gerber, Amy Spencer.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT!

Thirteen years of studying - coming to an end . . . Brenda Barker.

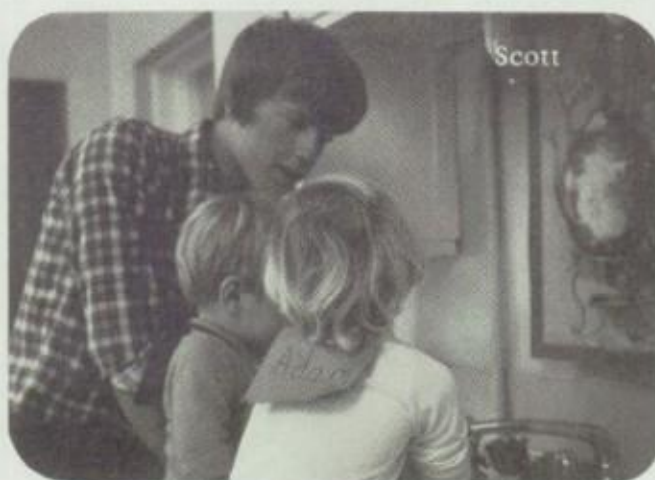

Being a senior is seeing the end of a long road and the beginning of an even longer one. As seniors we have to prepare ourselves for what lies ahead. We look back and remember all the good times and wonder how we'll ever make it on our own. School has in a way kept us sheltered from the real world; now, as part of it, we must contribute to it. Mostly though, being a senior will mean to me, memories, friends, laughter, good times, wondering what's ahead and sharing all these things with people close to you. . . . Amy Spencer.

Drink beer? Me? Na . . . Phil Woolley.

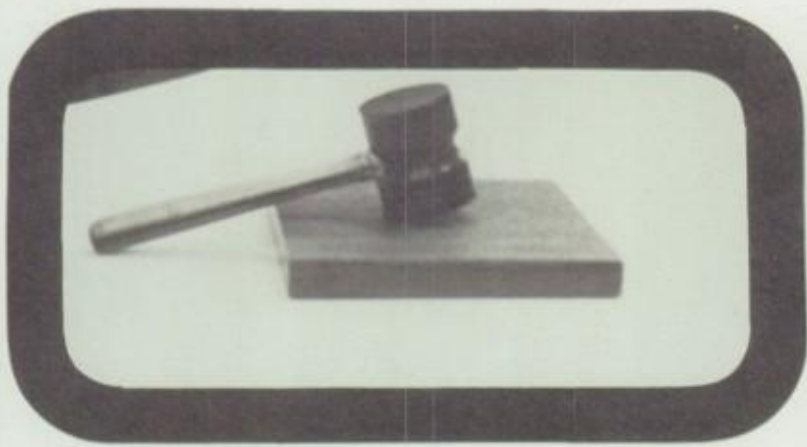

The deservee's of the '76-'77

Cooking, cleaning, driving busses, aiding teachers - these are a few of the integral parts of efficient school management which most people take for granted.

Since the early morning hours of the cooks and the midnight hours of the janitors do not often cross those of the student body, it is easy for the services of the "Keepers of the Courtroom" to be somewhat underestimated.

PAUSE

This spring the PAUSE was accepted for membership by QUILL AND SCROLL, an international Honorary Society for high school journalists. Shari Stevens, managing editor, was selected for membership in the society for the exceptional work she had done all year for the newspaper. Amy Spencer, editor, and Connie Poppe, production editor, received QUILL AND SCROLL Awards of Honor for their efforts.

During the summer of 1976, Marilyn Heintz and Shari Stevens attended a week long publications workshop at Ohio University. Other staff members attended day long workshops in Columbus and Dayton. Amy Spencer received an award from the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools for her work October 16, 1976.

Being a junior is a lot of fun and hard work. You do many things with your class - working at basketball games (getting in free), planning for prom and for our class trip next year. A lot of the fun in doing something is making the plans for it . . . we get to do a lot of that.

We seem to be getting a lot more freedom as we get older. We can get by with things this year that we wouldn't even have thought of last year. I think of graduating - next year this class will graduate and a lot of my classmates will move away so that I will probably never see them again. This year and next, then, will be the last chances I shall have to really get to know my classmates. Ty Lotz

Saturday evening, April 23, 1977, we were entertained by the Junior Class who presented the play GET SMART, adapted from the popular television series of the same name.

Jay Regula in the part of Maxwell Smart, the bumbling secret agent, spent much of his time in a trash can speaking on his "shoe phone." Mr. Big, portrayed by Ty Lotz, appeared suitably mean in his hairless state (thanks to a pink bathing cap).

The play was directed by Mr. Lacher, chemistry teacher at J.C.H.S. He was assisted by Sandy Zimpfer, who helped with prompting and props.

"GET SMART!!!"

To me, being a sophomore is pretty cool. We no longer are the babies and don't have to look up to everyone else in the building. Now we are the ones who set the examples and let the underclassmen follow us. I guess the two biggest things going are class rings and driver's licenses. It seems as if everyone has grown to be an adult. We do more things now and everybody works together for the first time - and yet - next year I'm sure some of the class will go to the J.V.S. The sophomore year is kind of sad; we know there are only two years of school left for us as a class, and although we'll probably still get together some, most of us will go our own ways. Jeff Wren

I guess I like the 9th grade because you can participate in annual staff, basketball, art club, and other things. We are finally in high school. You can now think, "only four more years!" When you are in the 9th grade you can be in pep band, be a statistician and can go to the ball games on the bus. In the 9th grade, everybody else treats you like you're someone; that means something to me. I guess that's why I like the 9th grade. Kelly Morris

The 8th Grade is O.K. I like Jr. High better now since the high school is upstairs, although I don't like the way some of our classes are run. We can go to our lockers only twice a day! I don't like to carry all those books! One thing I do like is that our gym period is split so that we don't have the boys. It is a lot different from last year, but I like it.

The 8th grade is not as exciting as the 7th grade and I don't think it will be as exciting as the 9th; it is kind of an in-between class. The good thing about the 8th grade is that we are ahead of the 7th grade. I really like the people in my class and I like being with them. This year's teachers are probably the best we have ever had. They like to laugh and have fun and yet we learn a lot from them.

SEVENTH GRADE

7th grade means being the runts of the high school and junior high. It means funky and fantastic fun and hard work. It means not getting the living daylight's beat out of you by the upperclassmen. It means ornery schemes, and talking but not getting caught. It means getting your homework done, especially in Mr. Pirman's class. It means doing your best and it means writing essays like this one. It means trying not to be rats that everybody hates. It means watching Mr. Russell drop his chalk, then hearing the thundering applause. It means helping each other out when an upperclassman picks on one of us. It means laughter and a lot of work; you just hope in Mr. Harmon's class that he doesn't make you feel like a jerk. It means going into Mr. Lacher's class and knowing that someone has pulled the stool that you are about to sit on clear up so that when you sit on it, it will crash downward. It means not getting lost your first day. It means having a friend in the upperclassmen. Nathan Gast

Seventh Grade is being able to get out of the elementary and into the junior high. It means going over to the high school building and feeling big and important to those younger than yourself. It also means that you can participate in most of the events that you were too young to participate in earlier. Gym helps us to get ready for girl's basketball and volleyball, in the high school. In 6th grade we can work in the cafeteria. At holidays we decorate rooms and have parties. School is a place to learn about subjects I don't know about. I like all subjects, even though some are not as easy as others to learn. I like to study, but I think there is a time to play. Learning is very important as we are taught to co-operate and share with others. School teaches us to become useful in different ways. It prepares us for our adult years. Third grade this year has been a lot of fun. We started cursive writing and are also learning our multiplication facts. This is hard work but kind of fun too!

We celebrated Children's Book Week by doing extra reading and making puzzles.

At Christmas time we invited our parents to our 3rd grade Christmas Program where we sang carols and ate cookies.

In second grade we learn to add and subtract, carry and borrow. In language, we learn to write correct sentences, and write letters. We also learn about the Pilgrims and Indians - and even present a play about the First Thanksgiving. Not only for Book Fair Week, but every week we read more books. Our favorites are CAT IN THE HAT and Dr. Seuss stories.

In first grade math, the children must memorize addition and subtraction facts. They are excited at beginning to read. Each week the children increase their word knowledge by memorizing the spelling words. They learn to print neatly. These are some of the areas in which children work while in the first grade.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The Reserve team, coached by Mr. Rick Russell, had a very successful season. They finished with an 11-7 record and won the last 6 games in a row. Donnie Sosby led the scoring with the highest point average, Mike Wildermuth had a free throw percentage of 64%, and Bruce Metz had the highest number of rebounds with 97.

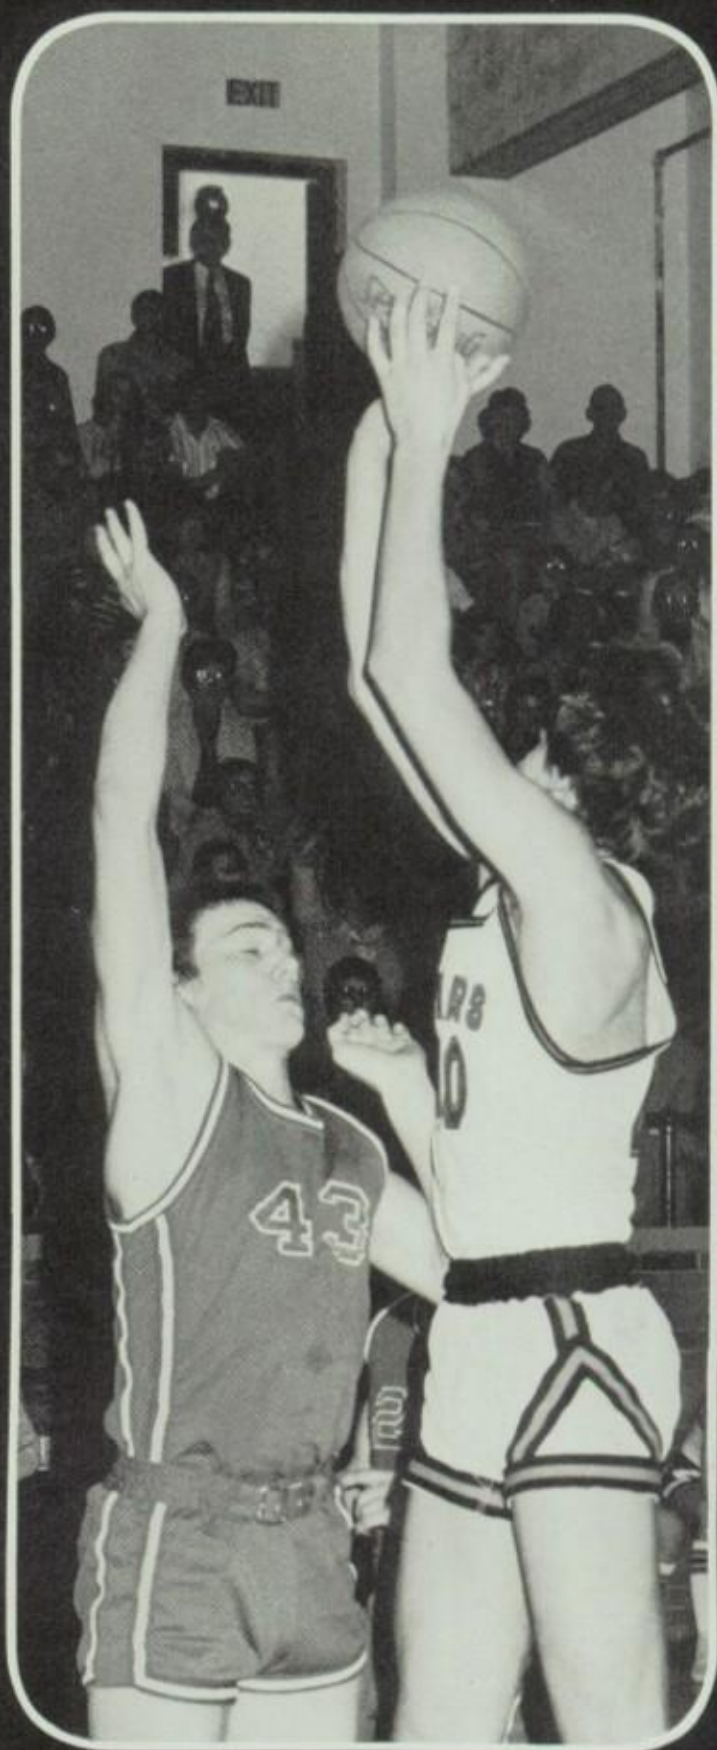

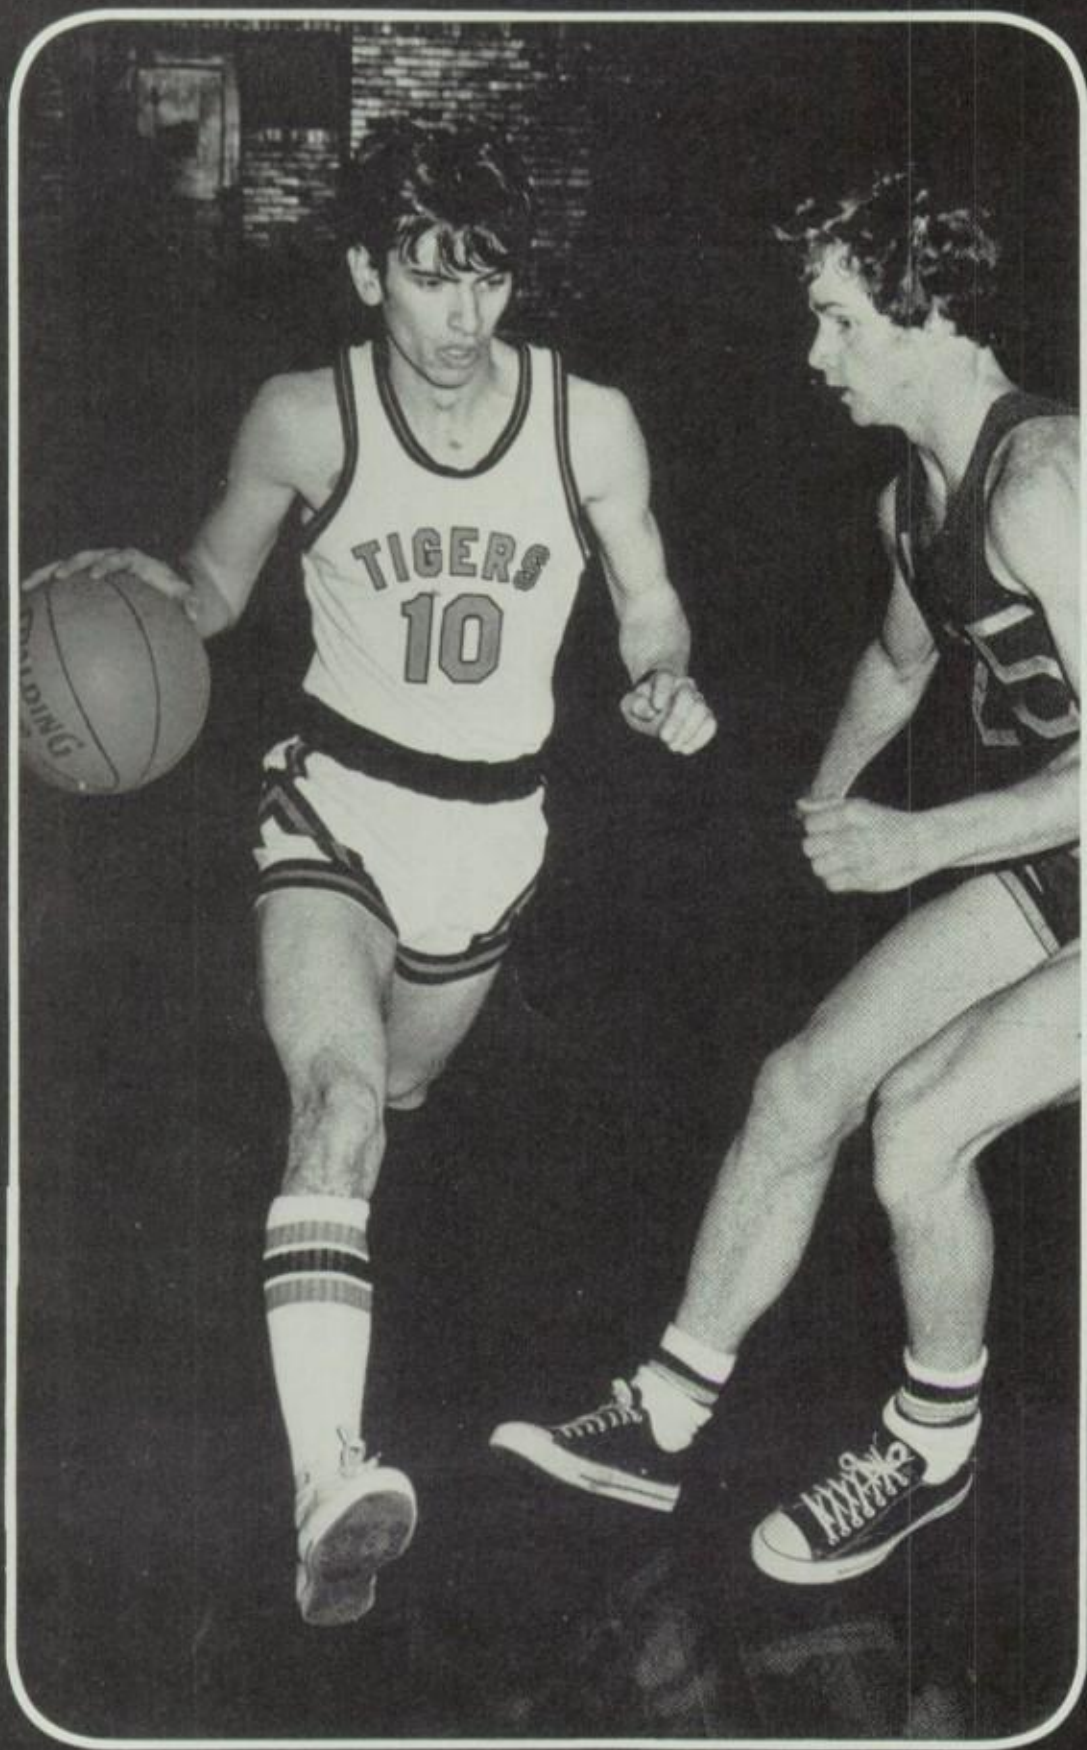

Our Varsity Basketball team was successfully coached by Mr. Jerry Harmon, a first-year coach at Jackson Center High School. Tom Bodenmiller and Kreg Huffer acted as co-captains of the varsity basketball team.

The team, which had a 5-14 record, gave us many exciting moments, played well and showed much promise for the future.

Following this, the 1976 King and Queen, Randy Pence and Jody Ware crowned the new royalty. Phil Woolley and Pam Helmlinger were crowned as the 1977 Homecoming King and Queen.

The Homecoming attendants selected by their classmates were: Dawn Leininger and Greg Johnston, Senior Class; Kay Klopfenstein and Ty Lotz, Junior Class; Diane Allenbaugh and Jeff Wren, Sophomore Class; and Monica Cagle and Doug Detrick, Freshman Class. The crown bearers, from the Kindergarten, were: Jason Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Harmon, and Heather Leininger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Leininger.

The cheerleaders once again proved to be a valuable asset to the basketball teams and student body. They sponsored several spirited pep rallies, as well as the very successful hall decorating contest. The cheerleaders helped to buoy the morale and confidence of the team and coaches by decorating their cars and locker rooms and by calling them individually on the phone to heartily wish them good luck.

The Girl's Varsity basketball team, coached by Miss Perrine, fared well this season with a 16-5 record, ranking second in the county. The Tigers' two league losses both came against Russia, one in overtime.

The most exciting moments in the season came when the Tigers defeated Russia at the District Finals in Bellefontaine which made them eligible to play in the Regional Tournament in Dayton. There they met previously undefeated Frankfort-Adena, the defending Class A State Champs, and lost by just two points in a last second shot.

Senior co-captains this year were Brenda Barker and Cindy Gilfillan.

Led by Danny Sosby and Steve Elsass, the 8th Grade finished the '76-'77 season with a 5 and 7 record, a 3rd place standing in the county and a 3rd place finish in the tournament. Hard practices helped to improve the team immensely and enabled them to overcome their small stature. Seventh grader Gary Mullen led his team to a 5 and 5 record and a 3rd place standing in the county.

This was the second year for the Volleyball team to play a power volleyball game. This type of game required 3 different passes; the bump pass, set pass, and spike. It is a more disciplined type of volleyball game than has been played in the past and it required the players to have a sound basic skill in the use of the 3 passes. Along with good controlled passes, a good power serve is needed. Top servers this year were Brenda Barker and Diane Allenbaugh, who were very close for top honors. Deb Tidd represented the Tigers in the county by being named to the 2nd All County Team. Last year she was honorable mention in the league. Michele Huffer was the most improved player.

JACKSON CENTER GOLF TEAM

The Jackson Center golf team, coached by Mr. Thogmartin, had a very successful season this year. They finished with a 15-4 regular season record, set a new team record (161), finished 2nd in the Shelby County Tournament, 2nd in the Sectional and tied for 5th in the District.

Five members earned letters this year: Kerry Scoggin, Kent Leininger, Mark Bunke, Doug Detrick and Kent Gorsuch. Kerry Scoggin earned the honor of being selected the Most Valuable Player and Kent Leininger earned the honor of being selected the Most Improved Player.

Our managers deserve tribute for doing a great job of cleaning balls, sweeping floors, and many other assorted duties.

Our faithful score-keepers and statisticians assisted by keeping all the athletic records for our teams.

The Letterman Club kept busy selling "Tiger Pride" stickers, planning the programs for the basketball games and having a bake sale.

JACKSON CENTER BAND

Our band had an active year-round schedule. During the summer, it performed for various parades, including the Memorial Day parade, the Jackson Center Homecoming parade and the Shelby Co. Fair. In October, we found the band marching at the DeGraff Gourd Festival and the Bradford Pumpkin Festival. In December, the band presented the annual Christmas Program. In February, the band gave a great performance during the Homecoming festivities and then presented their annual "Afternoon With the Arts" performance in May.

Mr. Pfaadt - Band Director

The Majorettes marched with the band at all the parades and they presented a special twirling performance for Homecoming. Feature twirler, Kim Gorsuch, who has earned many state and national awards, presented a special number with two batons.

J.C.H.S. ART CLUB

A number of fine artists joined the Art Club under the advisordship of Mrs. Sailor. The club was responsible for producing the excellent art exhibits at both the Piqua and J.C.H.S. art shows. The club conducted several activities including craft projects and the "Art Student of the Week" program. They are already making plans for school improvements to be carried out next year.

Officers this year were: Sandy Zimpfer, President; Bev Steenrod, V. Pres.; Chris Stukaloff, Sec.; and Elaine Woodruff, Treas.

The highlight of the year for the music and art departments is the annual "Afternoon With the Arts" which was held this year on Sunday afternoon, May 15, 1977.

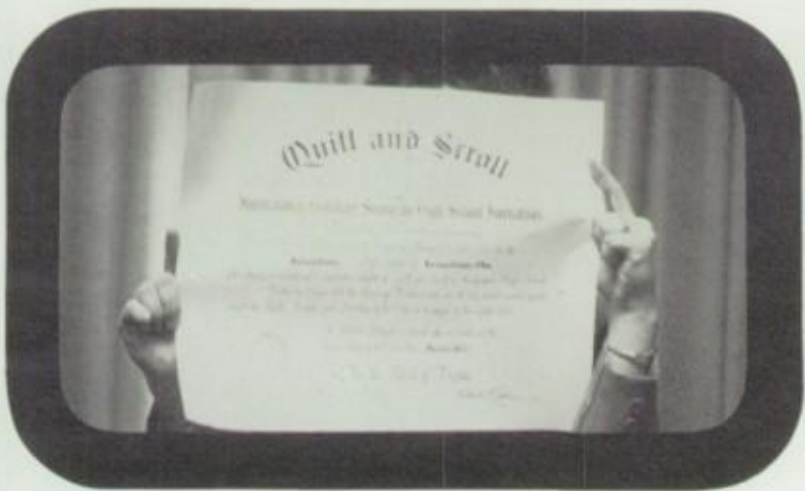

The Art Club planned and put up the art exhibit which consisted of work from grades 7 - 12. Art students also demonstrated various skills.

The music was provided by members of the Band and Chorus. The highlight of the program was the Band's rendition of "The Hustle."

QUILL AND SCROLL

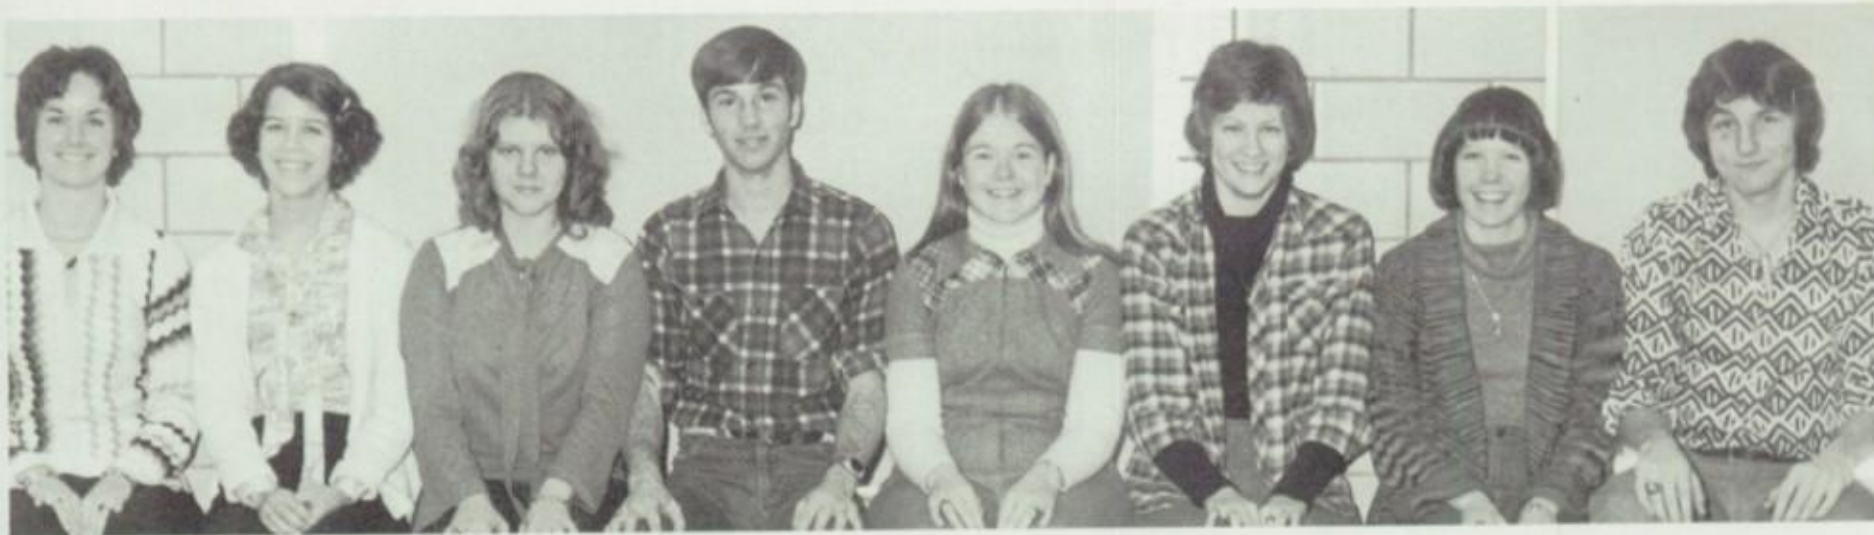

Quill and Scroll recognized Amy Spencer and Connie Poppe who received honor citations for their work on the school newspaper.

Co-Advisor - Mrs. Sailor

Quill and Scroll is the International Honor Society for high school journalists. The aims of the society are to encourage and honor individual initiative in high school journalism. J.C.H.S. was honored to receive its charter this year. Candidates for membership must be in the upper third of their class in general scholastic standing, and they must have done superior work in some phase of school publications. The first J.C.H.S. students selected as members of Quill and Scroll are: Shari Stevens, Kim Gorsuch and Bev Steenrod.

"We are good character, outstanding intellect, fearless leader, short Shari and fast service."

National Honor Society is composed of students selected on the basis of above average academic achievement. The four qualities upon which induction is based are scholarship, service, leadership and character. Under the advisorship of Miss Newlon, the group performed one service activity, enjoyed one social outing, and held the annual induction ceremony followed by a tea in honor of the new inductees and their parents. Officers include President Lori Meeker, Vice-president Brenda Schilling, Treasurer Jean Zwiebel and Secretary Shari Stevens.

We are obligingly posing for this candid at camera point.

Mrs. Shoffstall, Yoshiko Terauchi, Brenda Schilling, Kay Gerber, Lori Ware, Lori Calim, Nancy Johnston, Jeff Wren, Bettina Runge, Chris Stuckaloff, Kay Klopfenstein, Dana Snider, Donnie Sosby, Kreg Huffer, Lori Meeker.

The Student Council members voted to join the Ohio Assoc. of Student Councils for the '76-'77 school year. As part of the new program, Kay Gerber attended a week long summer workshop at Ohio Northern Univ. in Ada. Five other members were selected to attend the state conference April 21-23 in Mansfield, Ohio. They were: Kay Gerber, Kay Klopfenstein, Jeff Wren, Nancy Johnston, and Bettina Runge. Alternates were Brenda Schilling and Donnie Sosby.

Besides sponsoring the Homecoming Dance, two assemblies, and two movies, the council added some fun activities to the calendar. A contest was held for collecting Campbell Soup labels to buy equipment for the I.M.C. Officers included: President - Lori Meeker, V. Pres. - Dana Snider, Sec. - Lori Ware and Treas. - Nancy Johnston.

ACADEMIA AND AS SCHOOLS MATCH WITS

The Academia team dazzled the Shelby County league with their tough know-how and innovative, "bright" orange uniforms designed by Jean Zwiebel and produced in shop by Brent Christler. Although the team put up a hard fight, the County Championships which they had held for the previous two years passed to Botkins and Jackson Center finished with 2nd place honors.

For the first time, the Academia team participated in Channel 22's AS SCHOOLS MATCH WITS. In the closest, highest scoring, most exciting match of the show's '76-'77 season, Jackson Center lost by 5 points to Franklin Monroe.

SCIENCE CLUB

Under the direction of Mrs. Wildermuth, the Science Club contributed actively to school and community life. The club held monthly meetings at the houses of the various members and usually invited guest speakers to lecture. As well as field trips to the Columbus Zoo and the Batelle Institute, the club sponsored their annual Ecology Day clean-up drive and the Science Fair.

Helping America to grow . . . F.H.A. officers and advisor.

Mrs. Pirman - Advisor

Most of our chapter's activities dealt with some aspect of children, child safety, mental retardation, adopt-a-child, and fund raising for Children's Hospital. We also sponsored Jackson Center's cancer drive and a Cystic Fibrosis bike-a-thon. These activities helped us to win an award of merit from the state for outstanding yearly program. Student chairman Shari Stevens earned her third level degree in the Encounter Growth program.

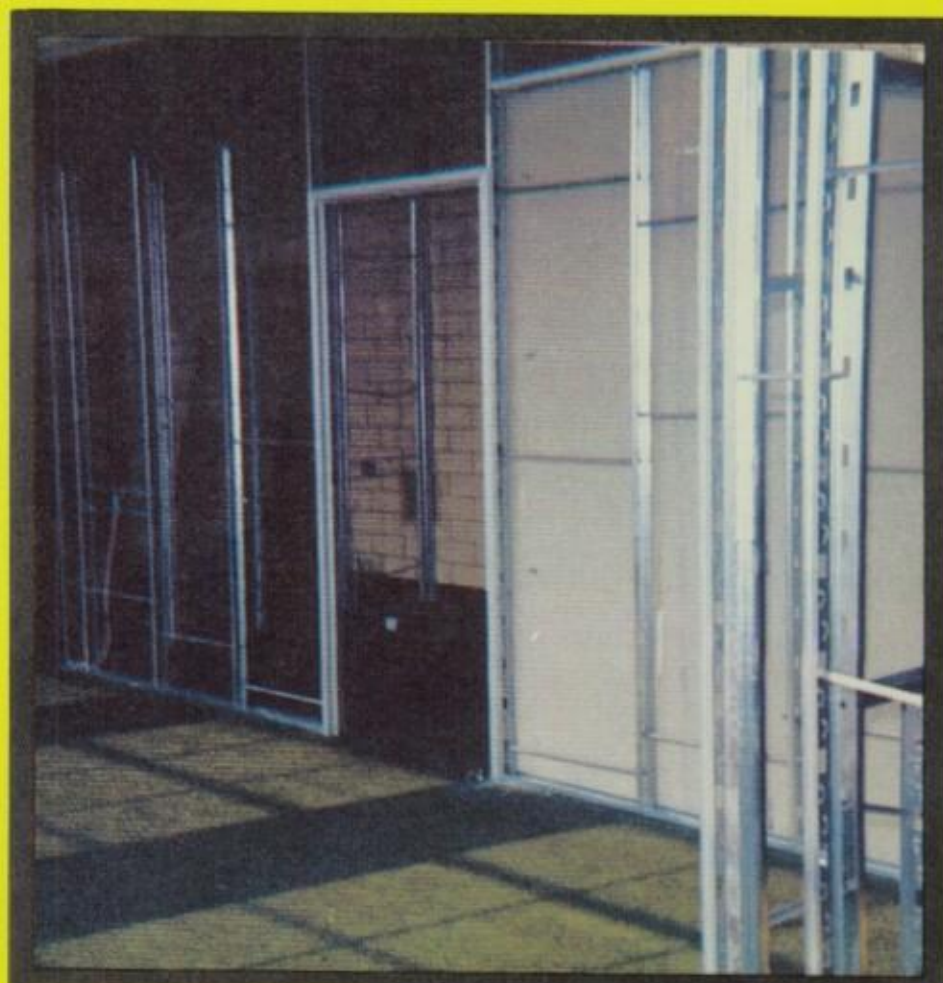

The purpose of F.T.A. is to help teachers in almost any way. Students donate time to help younger students with special problems, grade papers, and type up tests and exercises.

During the summer of '76, the ole' high school was deemed desperately in need of a few internal operations. For one thing, the old library simply couldn't keep up with the students' growth and scope of progress and the need for something newer and better was recognized. The solution to the problem, the IMC, created a new favorite haunt for Jackson's student body. Cozy furniture, bright colors, and soft sounds from the stereo not only created an easygoing atmosphere for leisure, but also produced a comfortable environment in which to study.

CHANGES IN THE COURTROOM

Less drastic operations switched several teachers into new rooms as a result of the plan to separate the junior high from the high school. When the office moved to its first floor residency, Mr. Klenke's vacated office became the newspaper's publication office and earned the affectionate name "The Pub." The old library received a refreshing coat of green paint and became the new art room. Some new faces at J.C. High include our three foreign exchange students . . . and history teacher, Mr. Pirman.

J.V.S. STUDENTS

Centrally located in Piqua, the Upper Valley Joint Vocational School has been serving numerous area schools for the past two years. Offering a curriculum ranging in variety from cosmetology to brick masonry to computer programming, the school permits the student to gain practical experience in his chosen field of work and prepares him to step into jobs after graduation without the need of further education. J.V.S. students remain a part of their home school class and are encouraged to participate in home school activities as well as J.V.S. activities.

KINDERGARTEN COMMENCEMENT

"Which One? Hat or diploma?"

Radiant young faces beam enthusiastically to the mixed joy and dismay of their assembled parents who know, as the children cannot, that kindergarten Commencement marks the end of romping, carefree fingerpainted hours and the beginning of days ever so much more complicated.

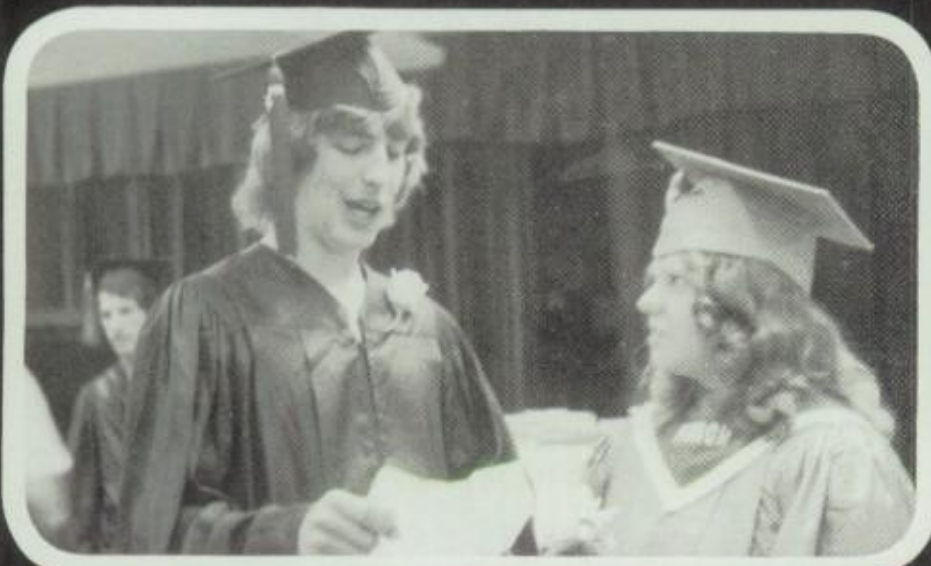

"My big Day!"

COMMENCEMENT '77

"and in conclusion . . ." . . . Phil Woolley practicing his speech with Shari Stevens.

Each year each department awards an achievement trophy to the outstanding senior student in that area. The 1977 recipients were:

Jean Zwiebel-----
Art and Home Ec.
Kim Gorsuch-----
English and Science
Lori Meeker-----
Business, Social Studies and Math
Kent Leininger-----
Industrial Arts
Shari Stevens-----
Foreign Language
Gary Metz-----
Vocational

The Glenn Smith Award to the outstanding senior boy and girl went to Lori Meeker and Gary Metz.

Everybody graduates in 90° weather.

Co-Salutatorian - Marilyn Heintz

Graduation - The golden reward resting at the end of a multi-color rainbow spanning 13 years! Commencement is the highlight of the school years and the 1977 graduates worked extra hard to make theirs a unique experience. Light blue and dark blue gowns replaced the traditional black and white. Under the direction of Mrs. Sailor and accompaniment of Mr. Pfaadt, the class presented four songs including the class song written to the melody of "Weekend in New England." Several student speakers replaced the usual guest speaker and Rev. Shady delivered the invocation and the benediction. Student addresses were given by the Valedictorian Lori Meeker and Co-Salutatorians Kim Gorsuch and Marilyn Heintz.

For the seniors, classes officially closed May 20, 1977. The juniors took over the vacated seats of authority, and the entire student body restlessly awaited the completion of exams and the May 27th release into summer. Teachers and administrators, too, were ready for a vacation!

THE VERDICT . . .

"Pretty good, huh?"

The last day of school is always a hectic and jubilant affair! Lockers must be cleaned, books returned, and squirt guns purchased. Final papers must be handed in and exams taken. When the final bell rings, teachers and students alike hasten to celebrate, leaving the building silent and lonely for the summer.

... ANNUAL STAFF ...

Editor - Kim Gorsuch

Asst. Editor - Dana Snider

Financial Manager - Bev Steenrod

As you have deduced, this year's Annual Staff has been a particularly active group. The yearbook has established financial independence of all classes, and is now self-supporting.

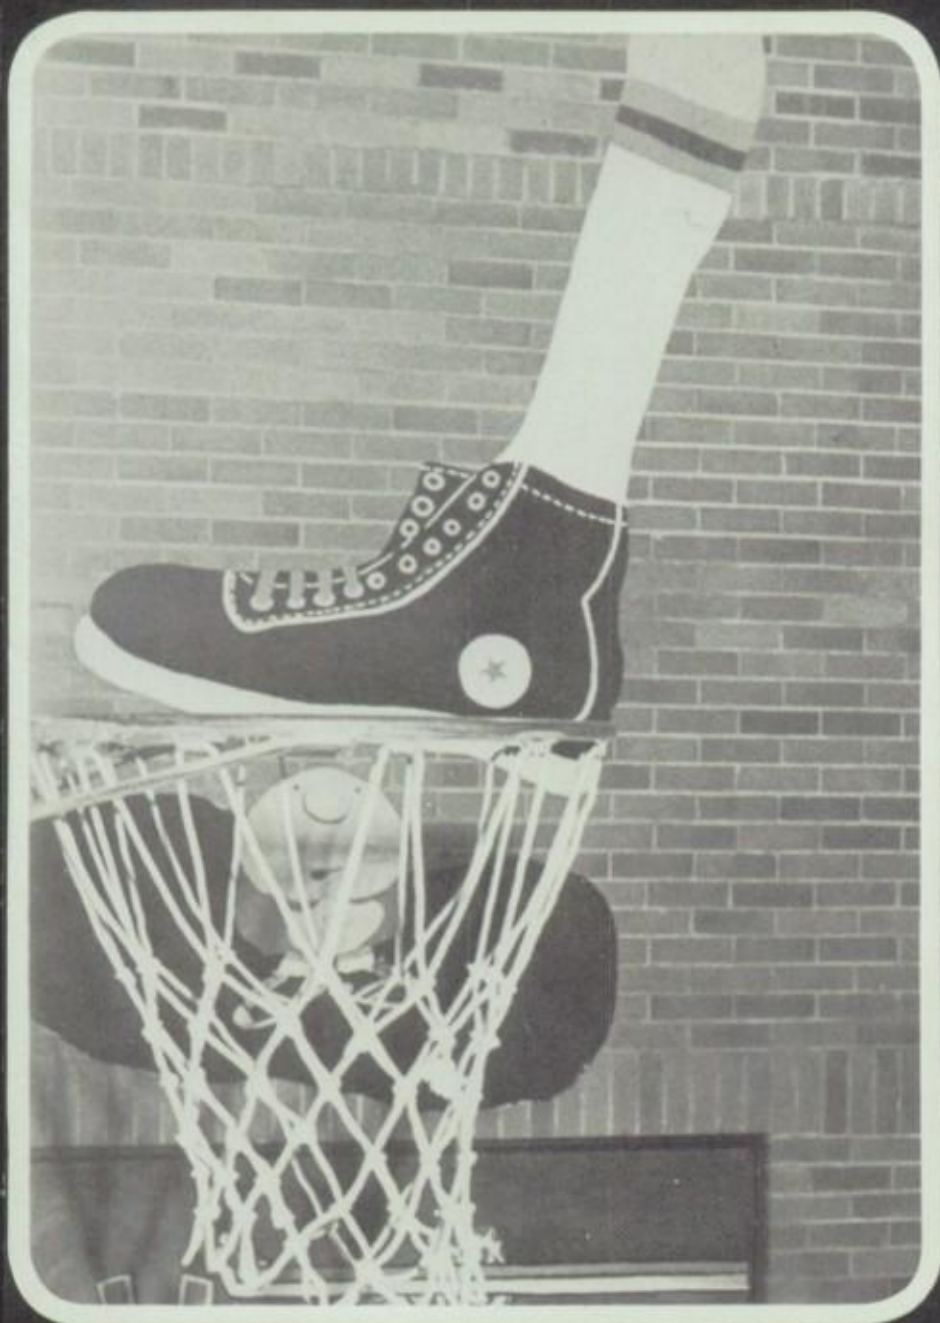

This year's staff included Advisor Mrs. Sailor, Editor Kim Gorsuch, Asst. Editor Dana Snider, and Financial Manager Bev Steenrod.

Advisor - Mrs. Sailor

IS . . . "GUILTY!"

Got'cha!

We the Annual Staff find the Student Body of Jackson Center High School "Guilty" on three counts: 1. Guilty of scholastic achievement above and beyond the call of duty; 2. Guilty of athletic endeavors heroic and extraordinary; 3. Guilty of artistic creativity both dramatic and exceptional. All three counts have bestowed honor and recognition on our school. We congratulate you on your fine performance.
